Dear Friends;

You may have heard about the fire that destroyed Coronet Printing's Chatsworth plant. I am writing to reassure you that our company remains open for business – even as we reestablish our operations.

While no area printers have the unique combination of technology, experience and equipment that Coronet offered, we have made arrangements with a long time friend and local printer to allow our people to use equipment at their sites. This ensures that we can provide all the services and quality you have come to expect from us.

In the coming months, we will open new facilities in Chatsworth. Our plan is to modernize the plant with the latest equipment and technology, to give our experienced team the best tools available to bring your project to life. Meanwhile, we will continue to operate through the network of suppliers and our temporary home to ensure that your printing needs are met – without any compromise to service, quality or price.

In this situation there are two bright spots. First, we are relieved that no one was injured in the fire. Equipment can be replaced; people cannot. Second, as we consider new equipment, we have the opportunity to precisely match our capabilities and equipment to the specific needs of our customers.

In the next weeks, we can send you a brief survey about your specific printing needs so that we can better serve them. Technology has improved dramatically in the printing industry during the past few years and as we replace equipment, we have the unique opportunity to tailor our operations to serve the needs of our customers. We value your input in our rebuilding process.

If you have any questions – or if We can help you with any print work and any other needs you might have please contact us immediately.

Sincerely,
Our Family at Coronet Printing
